

Comlux Debuts Its Airbus ACJ Here at Dubai

An Airbus Corporate Jetliner with VIP cabin flown by Comlux of Switzerland is making its MEBA debut, "giving potential customers the chance to experience for themselves the comfort and spaciousness that it offers," the manufacturer says.

The Comlux ACJ boasts a bedroom with ensuite bathroom including shower, a lounge, a dining room, and first-class seating. It seats up to 19 passengers. The ACJ is based on the European airframer's best-selling A320 product line.

Counting approximately 50 sales of government and VIP widebodies, sales of Airbus corporate jetliners now total more than 150. Airbus is at Chalet 26.

Avro Business Jet Builds Sales Here

"BAE Systems is emphasizing its Avro Business Jet, the ABJ, stating that the revamped corporate version of either the Bae 146 or Avro RJ "is proving to be a significant niche player in the buoyant Middle East corporate aircraft market."

BAE (Booth 722) is promoting quick completions for the ABJ, with interiors by Britain's Design Q.

Three Gulf governments have chosen the ABJ for regional VIP transport, BAE says:

- The Bahrain Defence Force took delivery of a VVIP RJ100 in April after conversion at Inflight Engineering Limited at London-Stansted. This aircraft joined two RJ85s already in service with the BDF.

- The Dubai Air Wing accepted its first RJ85 in the summer after conversion to executive configuration by Avmax in Calgary, Canada. The second RJ85 for the Dubai Air Wing is currently under con-
