Indianapolis – 27 April 2010

COMLUX ANNOUNCES THE GRAND OPENING OF ITS COMPLETION AND MAINTENANCE CENTER IN INDIANAPOLIS, USA

Comlux is pleased to announce the official Grand Opening of its own Completion and Maintenance facility located in Indianapolis, USA. The event is being celebrated today in presence of Mitch Roob, CEO of the Indiana Economic Development Corporation (IEDC), the major aircraft manufacturers and many Comlux VIP guests.

The large facility purchased a year and a half ago by the Comlux Group has been serving business Aviation for nearly 40 years and has accumulated a wide experience in both cabin interiors and aircraft maintenance. In 2009, it has been completely renewed and modernized and offers the latest standard of equipment for outfitting and maintaining business jets at the highest standards.

Ettore Rodaro, President of Comlux USA says “We are very pleased to celebrate our Grand Opening ceremony today. Thanks to the support of the State of Indiana, we have been able to upgrade massively the facilities and we have developed the skills our mechanics, craftsmen and engineers in order to achieve additional qualifications that will bring us more business: among them, we got our Authorized Service Facility agreement and we have been approved BBJ completion center”

“At the moment, we have already one Airbus A320 Prestige and one Bombardier Challenger 850 in completion in our hangars, and 2 additional VIP airliners will join them before the end of the year”, says David Edinger, CEO of Comlux USA, “Thanks to our own integrated production line, including our brand new engineering department, we will be able to ensure the completion of 4 to 6 aircraft simultaneously without compromising on the quality.”
