

Comlux America has refurbished its large completion hangar, and another is under construction.

has recently achieved we want [with the and now we have the business," he the Arabic revolu- tough in that can't rely on this ve to ensure that art of our busi- the other parts." es that the Com- on the largest s aircraft mar- icated, because held up better es in challenging ns. He believes e first VIP ver- Boeing 787 and enter the comple- will once again y for BBJ and a further work- s advantage. He Boeing and Air- ivering around ach year. Comlux Aviation sed in Indianap- FAA approval to extend the capability of its Gulfstream repair station to cover GIVs and GIV-SPs. It is already approved to work on the older GII, GIIB and GIII models. The Indianapolis facility has a 30-plus-year heritage in business aviation maintenance, repair and overhaul, which predates its ownership by Comlux. Comlux Aviation Services is also approved to provide support for Bombardier business aircraft. According to Gaona, the facility now has a backlog of work spanning three or more months, which is busier than it has been since Comlux took over. □

Comlux Recruits Middle East Veteran

Comlux The Aviation Group has appointed Ali Al Naqbi as a new member of its board of directors, on which he will serve as senior vice president for business development. A 20-year industry veteran, Al Naqbi started his career with Abu Dhabi's Presidential Flight as vice president of finance and administration and he subsequently helped to form the Royal Jet management and charter company established from the government operation. He also founded the Middle East Business Aviation Association (MEBAA) and still serves as its chairman as well as its elected representative on the International Business Aviation Council.

"It is an honor for me to be part of such a prestigious company as Comlux," said Al Naqbi. "The company is expanding quickly, worldwide, and I am very pleased to bring my experience at the most strategic level of the group. As I am residing in the Middle East, I will work also with the Comlux Middle East team to develop our presence on the market and to acquire new VIP clients in the region." —C.A.

ors quiet fliers

day hon- companies New Jer- Neighbor ty at the 2004. The safety and security and reduce noise at the airport. The group includes NATA, NBAA, GAMA, AOPA, Teterboro FBOs and other major operators including NetJets.

This year's recipients, honored for exemplary conduct during 2010, are: AB Flying, American General Finance, Barnes & Noble, C&S Wholesale, Cool Stream, David Edell, Eagle Air, Evertz Microsystems, Instant Aviation, JetSmart, Jon A. Wurtzburger, M&M Baron, Meredith Corp., NCR, R&F Wings, Red Wing Aeroplane, Robert J. Borghi, Travelers and White Mountains Capital —H W