Deer Jet and Comlux to Develop Asian VIP Market

Deer Jet, the Chinese VIP charter company belonging to HNA Group, and Fly Comlux have agreed to develop the VIP charter market in Asia, Central Asia and Europe. Deer Jet already operates a fleet of 23 aircraft across Asia and an FBO in Beijing. The Comlux VIP fleet includes 15 aircraft. Fly Comlux also has a facility in Kazakhstan.

The agreement will provide the customers of both companies with a complete fleet of VIP aircraft that are able to meet almost all mission requirements. "We are already operating the largest VIP fleet in China and we are confident that this agreement will strongly develop our market position and our customer base. With Comlux we can expand our charter business in Europe and Central Asia," said Zhang Kui, CEO of Deer Jet.

Jetcorp Moves to New Facility

Jetcorp Technical Services is moving into new premises at the Spirit of St Louis Airport near Chesterfield, Missouri. The new 5,300 m² (57,000 sq. ft) facility contains hangar and shop areas (including a component and sheet-metal work area), modern avionics space with the latest equipment, and maintenance and sales offices. Jetcorp will continue to use its existing upholstery and cabinet shop which is located across the street from the new facility.

Jetcorp provides a range of services including heavy aircraft maintenance, component repair and overhaul, interior completions and refurbishment and around-the-clock AOG support. The move to new premises comes just over a year after Jetcorp was acquired by Flying Colours Corp, a Canadian-based company specialising in all aspects of completions and maintenance.
